“ Q: What will you miss most about Andrew?
A: I miss our conversations about his family and the memories he had as a kid growing up. I also miss the great advice he gave me over the years and his friendship before during and after a rough time I was having in my life. He shared with me some of the experiences he had that that were similar to mine. I can honestly say I loved and respected the man and it was an honor knowing him. I love you my friend and one day I pray we will meet again. We can share some more stories on that joyous day. See you then Father Time 😊
