“ Moody, I'm not sure if you ever knew this but you used to always lose when you played cards with nonnie because she would get us kids to run over and look at your cards to tell her 😭. Then I remember you used to act like you hated “the lazy song” but one day you told me you actually kind of liked it. I remember all of our shopping trips to kohls, going out to lunch, and when you'd make me take you all of these places to run your errands. Now I would love to do that again. I remember you being at almost every Christmas and holiday. I have so much more memories and good times with you that I'm going to miss and never forget. You're okay now though, no more pain of your legs hurting or body aching, no more using a gallon of lcy Hot on your body lol. You're in peace now, as much it hurts that you're gone, you're with God now and the pain is gone. \nLove you SO much Moody and I'll never stop ❤\n\nYour granddaughter, \nAlayna \n\n Left a blue candle because I know that's your favorite color 💙🦋
