“ 13 years ago was when our journey began. We were introduced as your son called me a 'friend' it was then you already knew our love was pure. As mine and your son's love grew you were always right there, as our #1 supporter, even when the rest of the world was against us. You were Always there for us!! You were the one and only family from 'Mike's side ' to join us as in celebration as we walked down that aisle and became one. As for the day your grand babies were born while you held my hand trying to keep me calm, reminding me to 'just breathe Ape, 'hehehe whoowhoo' as we had jokingly practiced days prior. You are the best mother in law any girl could ask for. Memories fill my heart as I sit here and think back though these past 13 years. I will always remember the fun and the laughter we shared especially when no one else was around, Fun memories between ONLY you and I, and as promised you took them with you to heaven, never telling a single soul. When I want to cry bc I miss you, I just think about the time in Franklin square after your hip operation, you were in a wheelchair and I was your 'driver' who was not so good. We crashed into just about everything, almost causing the chair to tip over, though we laughed so hard, almost peeing our pants. Good times, Mom. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for all you did for us. Madison misses you and thinks about all the memories you two shared, she says she loves you to the moon and back! Austin misses hearing your words of praise when he would drop by to check on you, at your house, while he was out to play. You would tell him 'you're such a good boy and your heart is pure, you surely will make a woman happy one day, as you patted him on his back. He will never forget, he loves you to the black hole and back! Although times got rough towards the end, I would never trade what we had for anything! You were my best friend when I had no friends, You were our glue the fixed life when things seemed to crumble, You were a loving Grandma to our kids and the best Mother you knew how to be. Mom you are missed each and everyday. Keep watching over us, WE LOVE YOU! Until we see each other again. Love, Ape
