“ I am so sorry to hear about this and just found out today from Facebook. David and I sang together at Curtis when we were students there. He was a kind man and a good friend. I will miss him. My sincerest condolences to his family.

“ I met David when he was a freshman at American University and he appeared in my class voice very page, green and unable to sing on pitch. I told him to try taking voice privately with my husband, Anastasios thinking that it would help him more than a class. He not only embraced that enthusiastically, but became a voice major, graduated with a terrific recital and went to Curtis Institute several years later. He never let up on his voice, his music or his enthusiasm about singing. He remained a good friend after all those years. We will miss David - his gentleness, vulnerability , talent and love.

“ David and I met in 1999, my 1st year in the company and shared a lot of laughs and our love of movies and TV shows for many seasons. I know he'd had health problems over the years but last I saw him , he'd been better. At least he is no longer in pain. My condolences to his primary and extended families. He was a big fan of Star Trek so I will watch one of the movies (original cast, of course) in his honor. Live long and prosper sir!

“ David and I met in 1995. He was an outstanding musician but was very quiet about his accomplishments. I would ask him about a gig and learn that he'd performed at Wolf trap or the Kennedy Center. He loved baseball -- his knowledge was encyclopedic -- and especially the Washington Nationals. We often watched sports on TV, sometimes attending games together. I will miss his laugh and gentle demeanor. Rest in peace.

“ Very sad to hear of David's death -- I sang with him many, many times at Washington National Opera and Wolf Trap Opera; benefited from his knowledge and love of the Redskins and Nationals (shared a game or two with him as well); was always glad to see him and talk to him. And to salute him one last time with my (and his) favored greeting: Rest in peace, Mr. Pra-zhay.

“ My sincere condolences to David's family. He and I first became friends in the early 80s at American University and sang together many times locally. Recent years we both sang at UNMC in DC and became reacquainted. He was a kind and loyal friend and a generous colleague. I will miss him.

“ I am very sad to hear of David's passing. I was lucky to get to sing with him at Washington National Opera, and loved running into him at IHOP outside of work. He was extremely supportive of both my singing and of me emotionally during a very difficult time. His kindness will be with me always and he will be missed.
