“ I still can't believe you're gone. I know you're no longer suffering and you finding peace brings me peace. I miss you so much, today being Father's Day was especially hard. I will cherish all the good times and even the bad because those made us the people we are. I will continue to try to live more simpler like you and I hope I will continue to make you proud. Hug Spike for me. I love you, love your Jaybird.

“ I have so many memories of Dave that it's hard to choose where to start. One of the most vivid is when Marie first started dating him. They were so happy together. Dave was a part of our family for so long. I remember living with them on multiple occasions, and the birth of both his children. Dave and I had many conversations. He was such a deep thinker and so well-read. He could talk about anything. I am going to miss him so much. I find comfort knowing that Dave is no longer in pain. He's with Spike, and I'm sure they're building something great together in heaven. Jessica, you are a strong woman, and you've given your all to helping your father till the end. Know in your heart that Spike is no longer alone and has his buddy right there watching over you all. Much love from your cousins.
