“ To my beautiful and loving grandmother, I think about you every day and I wish you were still here with us. Every day I wake up and it's still hard for me to accept that I won't ever see you in person again.
You were one of the strongest women I knew and I'm so proud to call you my grandmother. I prayed to God just about every day for a miracle to occur but I guess that wasn't in his plans and so he called you home with him. I miss you so much and I look forward to the day when I will see you again and hug you again and tell you to your face how much I love you and how important you are to me.
You're forever in my heart and mind and I will always love you.

“ To my Loving Mother Loise. Nothing feels the same anymore. You've been gone a week now and my heart aches because I will never hear your voice again. I always thought my mother would be here. It just seem like nothing touched you and if it did you always bounced back stronger then before. This time it wasn't in God's plans. I hated seeing you in so much pain and suffering. It tore me apart inside because you are my mama and I love you so much. So it was time for you to go home even though I wanted you to never leave. Clinton and I whispered in your ear as you were sleeping the day before your passing, \"you don't have to stay here with us anymore, we will be ok.\" You heard us Loise because you gained your wings the very next day. I love you Loise, I always have and I always will. Say hello to dad for me, Love you both. Until we meet again. Your Loving Daughter Deborah

“ This is fitting this song by Michael Jackson, cause I thought there was time.\n\nLike a comet Blazing 'cross the evening sky Gone too soon Like a rainbow Fading in the twinkling of an eye Gone too soon Shiny and sparkly And splendidly bright Here one day Gone one night Like the loss of sunlight On a cloudy afternoon Gone too soon Like a castle Built upon a sandy beach Gone too soon Like a perfect flower That is just beyond your reach Gone too soon Born to amuse, to inspire, to delight Here one day Gone one night Like a sunset Dying with the rising of the moon Gone too soon Gone too soon

“ I will always remember and love ❤️ my grandmother Deloise Ann Johnson as a strong, independent, and loving person. I have so many fond memories of her that I will carry with me as long as I live. As a child I remember all the times that we would just get in the car and go...sometimes we landed in Virginia...where my grandmother grew up, other times it could be the race track or wherever the wind blew. She was adventurous and loved to go places! I remember a time when we went to South Carolina and being on boats as a child with my sister...but we had to leave in a hurry bc a dangerous hurricane was coming through...I will always remember the talks, laughs, and all the stories she shared with us...but one of the most important lesson she instilled was God and family. My grandmother loved her family with her whole heart. I will miss her so much she would always call me and say \" hey baby, how you doing\"...and I'm so heartbroken to have to now say...\"missing you\"....til I see u one day in heaven...know that I love you, and I'm not sure if my grandmother knew it or not but she touched, and had a huge impact on alot of people! From your granddaughter Krystal.
