“ Donald loved to talk. He wanted for people to view his opinions. He had a loving heart. His boys were his world!! When I was young, Don would talk in his sleep! On Christmas morning he would start to knock on my parents door to see if it was time to celebrate Christmas. My dad would say to him\ " go back to bed!\ " It's not time. Donald would knock on the door at least 5 more times!!! Don always remembered birthdays. Thank you Don for keeping me on the straight and narrow path called \ "Life\ "

“ I've known Don since the early 80's. I met him where we both were employed. After we became more acquainted, I suggested he go to school for electronics. He not only finished school but landed a better position in the field than I held. That was his way, always trying to out do himself. Later during the times of his family growth he performed his duties as father, rearing his children with the greatest love and guidance a father can offer. He later nurtchered a very successful career in I.T. He was always good to me and helped me thru some pretty tough times. Dear God I'll miss him dearly I loved him like the little brother I never had. Please watch over him.

“ Don was the 3rd of 4 siblings. Growing up he was the rebel. I was the one trying to keep him out of trouble. That didn't always work. He loved so many people in his life, but not as much as his four children. Through all his trials and tribulations his love for them never changed. I'll forever miss you, and love you more.
