“ One of the toughest professors I've ever had in my life! However if it wasn't for him, I wouldn't have graduated or have a degree in History. Tears fill my eyes as I think about how he took a 24 Year old black young man from Baltimore under his wing as my senior thesis advisor. \“Carter you can't write! I don't know how you've made it this far\”. Or \“ You've managed to avoid my classes for 4 years now you have to go through me\” Then he began the lesson of teaching me how to write and write history. \n Lessons that I still use to this very day \“stop trying to sound so intelligent Carter, just write well thought out complete sentences \”. Love you Professor TRUE GRADE. Thanks for all you taught me. I'll never forget you!
