“ I will say that Buddy was the best dad ever! We had many ups and many downs but at the end of the day, what dad and daughter do not? It took me a few years to learn to live with you and now it is going to take me a lifetime to learn to live without you! Just know that you were definitely the best man for my mom and my mom picked the best man for her children's father as well as the best man for her grand children and great grand children! Until we see each other again dad, always know, I love you so much and not one day will ever go by that I wont think about you and miss you! I will see you again dad!!!!

“ Pop, Don't forget what I told you LOL, Life would be too hard if I didn't believe I was going to see you again so make sure you save me a spot! I'm so glad you went quickly and didn't suffer anymore, Had you lived you would have suffered, I'm sure of it, and you would have hated that. You not being here didn't really hit me for a few day's. I knew you were gone but I didn't really believe it, Now I know beyond a shadow of a doubt that you've gone and it's awful. I might be in my 40's but my dad is still gone and it sucks. I know it's a sadness that will change into something different over time. At the moment I'm not sure what but this won't last forever. There is solace in knowing you had a good life and you are where you always believed you would be. It doesn't take away the pain, though. I miss you Pop, and no amount of words can change that. you were still my dad, even though I'm a grown-up.. Till I see you again, Joe

“ I don't have any pictures but I remember when we were younger if buddy answered the phone when you called then he would always answer it saying your quarter is spent and if the person you called for isn't here then it wasted 😞. As I got older I didn't see Buddy as much because I am always on the go., but when I was around him we had some goo conversations. Wether it was arguing about football or just talking crap. Buddy was a good man and friend and loved not only by his family but by us Morningside kids also. Well then again we are family too. Love you Buddy. You will definitely be missed!
