“ One of my favorite memories of my Dad was him teaching us to roller skate when we were kids. I truly appreciated those moments because I made sure to teach my child to skate and enjoy dancing on four wheels. After moving out on my own and coming home to visit Dad would cheerfully greet me calling me babygirl or Ammena. \n\nDad gave me the strength and fortitude to navigate this world. He taught me to appreciate a higher power at work in my life. Thank you Dad for blessing us with your presence and protection. We love you and miss you. \nLove,\nAlisha

“ I remember the day Mommy brought him home from the hospital. He had two little pink feet. He was afraid of the dark. He was fun to be around. \n\nMommy brought him home from the hospital and he was wrapped in the blanket. He was so cute. That was my brother. I love my brother. \n\nWhile we attended my brother-in-law funeral Sonny said to me, “Roz you getting old!” Sonny was funny. He always made laugh. \n\nI love my brother. \nRosalind Seymore

“ What a great picture selected for the cover of the tribute book! His big smile is how I will remember my cousin Sunny and his bid laugh. Rest in peace. \r\nWynnette
