“God will wipe every tear from their eyes. There will be no more death or mourning or crying or pain, for the old order of things has passed away.”
Revelations 21:4

“I must not fear. Fear is the mind-killer. Fear is the little-death that brings total obliteration. I will face my fear. I will permit it to pass over me and through me. And when it has gone past I will turn the inner eye to see its path. Where the fear has gone there will be nothing. Only I will remain.” - Frank Herbert, Dune.

“ My dear sweet James, I still can't believe you're gone. You always knew to come here when you needed to feel safe. I remember you surprising me on Mother's Day with a Xmas Cactus and hand lotion. You had so much love inside of you but everything got so twisted up and you as smart as you were got so, so lost and I couldn't ever convince you to change paths and now you're gone and it's too late. I miss you dear boy, I really do. I hope you're with your mom now. I love you James and I always saw the goodness in you.

“ I remember us going out eat with you at horseshoe. You always got yourself and me an Amerrito Sour. You started getting extra cherries cause I would swipe them from your glass... it bothered you some but you always let me. Another night we went you kept poking fun of me cause I brought a persimmon and you found me at table eating it, even got a picture much to my dismay just wish you were in the picture with me.

“ You always loved going to the horseshoe casino. So many of the pictures I have of you are from there. Still don't like the place myself but loved the times we shared and especially the food we ate there.
