“ Mr. Jim welcomed everyone with a smile either he had met you before or it was the first time meeting you. He treated me well with love, respect and kindness. He affectionately called me his second wife, “ my Josephine “. I remember wherever we took a walk outside, he would talk about how he loved swimming and loved to watch people swim.\nMay your gentle soul rest in perfect peace .
Much Love Mr. Jim  \n\nJosephine

“ Jim and I met while taking classes on becoming Catholic. We were thick as thieves for years. He might not have been nuts, but he was nuts about the Ravens and Orioles. When they were playing not up to par, you could watch the temperature raise, face red, eyes popping out. He would get 2 inches from my face and be yelling at the TV like he thought they could hear him. Jim was also passionate about beer. He loved the brewery's. Was always working on a plan to be involved in the market. I think he might have wanted to own a Hooters. He'd have been in dreamland.\nHate saying goodbye, but as the saying goes, he's in a better place. You are already missed
\nGod Bless, RIP\nMike

“ One of my last good visits with Jim-Bo...we shared a few stories along with some wings and pizza. Next to beer, I believe those were some of his favorite carbs. :-)

“ Hey Jim-Bo....we met sharing a job that wasn't very busy, we it did leave time for chatting and getting you know each other. You were a passionate guy when it came to your family, your love for beer , your politics and your love for you fellow man. Your favorite President...Harry Truman who hailed from Missouri. It was a pleasure to be your friend and \"Designated Driver\" for the beer feast. I enjoyed your company and friendship over these last 9 years...you were one of the best....rest easy now...see ya soon ...
