“ Dear John, \tFrom the day we met we have shared so much joy and pain together. We spoke in tongue and we listen to each other more than we talked. When we walked and it was not in a straight line it was side by side. We learn more from each other than we taught each other. We enjoy the moment and took the time to hear silence. If one yelled the other yelled and then we both laugh. \tIn the end all I wanted was to hold your hand that was my destination and you gave me the greatest gift of all the journey. I could feel your love whole way and yes, I could hear you say “Well then don’t do that Billy”. \t\tI LOVE YOU MY BROTHER Aloha for now Mr. Bill

“ Few are created of such high caliber. Fewer still are those we chance to meet. John was one of those few. I had the privilege to know John for many years and am honored to call him a friend. You are deeply missed. Joe Pope
