“ So it's been almost a year it doesn't get any easier I still see him everywhere think of him everyday. I haven't had another relationship I can't love another person my heart just hurts. When I go to our lil bar across the street I play his song every single time and toast a beer to him. It is so Hard to believe how one person can affect your life so deeply. I love you Justin forever.

“ Justin and I were only roommates for a short period of time. But in that short period, we shared many laughs and he made me feel welcome because of his outgoing personality. My thoughts are with his family and friends during this very trying time. May he finally rest in peace.

“ Justin brought a lot of hurt to my life but under that demon called addiction, he loved me. I am still affected so deeply by the time he spent living with me that it effects my daily life. I am the one person that loved him so deeply and I can't stop. My heart is so broken.
