“ Lisa and I worked together for many years in the legal field. Lisa was very friendly and supportive to me at work, as I was the newbie, and we quickly bonded. I often took her home from work as my route to work went right past her house in Brooklyn. She introduced me to her family, Jordynn, Landyn, and Johnnie. Lisa loved her family so much -- she talked of them constantly and I felt like I knew them too. Her happiness was centered around her family. She would bring Landyn out to meet me when I dropped her off, and her face beamed with love for her grandson. At work, she would call me into her office to show me pictures of Jordynn and Landyn and her other family members. Lisa was a loving and caring woman. She would tear up easily upon hearing of someone else's pain or suffering. We shared many stories of our lives which often had us both in tears. She was a really good friend and you knew that she had your back if you needed her. She was very loyal to her close friends and family. She gave the best hugs. I am so blessed to have known Lisa and to be able to call her a good friend. I will miss her terribly. Rest in peace, Lisa, and know that you will not be forgotten. Love you, Robin Smith.

“ I love you more than yesterday but not as much as tomorrow mommy, I can't believe daddy, landyn and I don't have you physically here with us anymore. You were the apple of my eye, my bestfriend, my mentor, my backbone in anyway, shape or form. Without you I'm not sure how to live life, now I just take it day by day. I haven't left daddy's side and I never plan to, show us signs that your still here with us and help us get through. I love you so much my leading lady and my heart will forever belong to you.
