“ This was a guy who could pick up a musical instrument and play it. With a guitar in hand, which was his favorite to play, or even on a piano, I remember him asking anyone to name a Beatles song and he could play it from memory. He loved jazz and he loved playing in front of people. He was a big guy with a big heart and I am sorry to hear of his passing. But at least the music in Heaven just got a little more lively!
