

Patricia Tandle

August 6, 1951 - April 23, 2024

Patricia Ann Tandle, fondly known as Tricia, entered into rest peacefully in her sleep, in her favorite sunroom smelling the aroma of her magnificent flowers, on April 23, 2024. Tricia was born on August 6, 1951 in Rochester, New York to father Peter Tandle and mother Katie Parrone, who both predeceased her. Tricia was also pre-deceased by her daughter Georgia Marie Woynarski, sister Marie Chiles and brother John Parrone.

Tricia wore many hats during her lifetime. She was a wife, mother, political scientist, and occupational therapist.

Tricia was a 1981 graduate of the Wells College Women in Lifelong Learning program. She was a strong animal advocate shown by her care of her animals and those who merely 'visited' daily. She was a regular contributor to the Jane Goodall Institute and was passionate about the ethical and humane treatment of all animals.

Tricia's life will be remembered by many due to the intense devotion she displayed for her young special needs students and their families. Her treatment as an occupational therapist was focused on the strengths of every individual and her passion was to instill in others a "can do" spirit. Pity or indulgence were not tolerated. Her expectations were high and both Tricia and the student were delighted with their inevitable progress. Her devotion to children extended beyond her professional life, always finding pseudo grandchildren in the neighborhood. She remained a champion of all children throughout her life.

Survived by her niece, Linda Kay Wilson, and many loving friends, neighbors and co-workers, Tricia will be missed by all that knew her.

“ So sad to hear of Tricia’s passing, it was so nice to get to know her, when we moved to Takoma Park a long time ago and to see her again, when our son turned 18. She was such a warm, friendly and welcoming person and will be deeply missed.

“ To know Tricia was to embrace her with love, respect, and admiration, both in personal and professional spheres. Whether in agreement or disagreement, she remained a paragon of honesty, always forthright in expressing her thoughts. Her maternal instincts were evident in every interaction; she possessed an innate ability to care for others, akin to a nurturing mother. Tricia's gentle gestures, like removing debris from someone's face without hesitation (especially mine), exemplified her unconditional compassion, transcending social norms or surroundings. Even those with the most composed demeanor found solace in her presence. Tricia's departure leaves an irreplaceable void, and her memory will forever be cherished. - Dr. Frederick B. Covington
