“Dad, You are incredibly missed. I now know the pain of losing a parent of which I feel as though you never truly fully heal from. It has been four years and I am still in pieces over the loss of my dad. I found a Popples calendar at a store I rarely go to. My fondest memory is of us watching The Price is Right, eating Stella cookies, and me drinking “coffee” in my little Popples mug. I feel like you were the only one in our messed up family who understood me. Donna still hasn’t given anyone your ashes. Petty. I love you, Dad.
