“ Hey sue. I just called the office to schedule an appt., and I wasn't greeted with your voice. I figured you were off, so I just asked \"hey... Where's sue at?\", And I was told the shocking news. I am so disappointed that this happened to you. I liked you alot. The times we hung out were always cool, and I thought you were such a kind and fun person. I feel sad, but I know you are on the next journey of life, so I am happy you get another opportunity to touch others. I am really sad for your kids, you would speak so fondly of them. Life will not be the same without you. Until we meet again...

“ I'm grateful I was able to see Sue , Trish and Debbie all together along with their families in December. She looked great and that smile is what I will remember. I still can hardly believe she is gone. It is a present reminder to cherish each and every day with our loved ones, for we just never know when our name will be called to reunite with our Heavenly Father. May she rest in peace and may the grace of God bring comfort, as only He can, to her loved ones as they walk through the difficult days ahead.

“ Dear Sue, I was shocked and saddened to hear the devastating news of your passing. You were kind, sweet, and made everyone feel worthy. Working together for many years, I enjoyed our conversations about kids, and funny things they would say or mispronounce. Josh, Jesse, Katie, & Sara were so lucky to have had a mother like you. May they find peace and hold you in their hearts forever. You will be missed.. fly high sweet angel, until we meet again. ❤️ Sherry Draper

“ Sue was like a sister to me and always will be. We met as teenagers in junior high and grew up together during the wonderful time of the 70's with all the great rock music, and safer times of walking everywhere, and hanging out with people in person vs. social media. She was the original earth mother, who had a lot of children that she adored and doted on, always asked about everyone else's kids, loved all animals, especially her own pets. She knew what was going on. I loved her smile, her laughter, we'd sit at my house and talk for hours and hours and never run out of things to say. I'll never forget you Sue, you are an absolute angel, and now you are amongst them. Fly high my dear.
